The call to my api is asynchronous, so I need to call it when the user navigates to that route and then store the data into a session variable. I've got the following code: if (angular.isDefined(history.pushState)) { var newState = {}; newState.url = data.Url; newState.user = data.User; newState.isLoggedIn = data.IsLoggedIn; newState.userIsAdmin = data.UserIsAdmin; $rootScope.Current.history.pushState(newState, newState.Url, newState.user); $rootScope.$on('$stateChangeStart', function(event, toState, toParams, fromState, fromParams) { if ($rootScope.Current.history.length === 1) { $rootScope.Current.sessionStorage.Login = $rootScope.Current.login; } $rootScope.Current.history.pushState(newState, newState.Url, newState.user); }); } The problem with this code is that it will only store the first push of state when the user navigates to that route. I've tried adding the pushStates() method after the user has already been logged in but it breaks the authentication. I've also tried running $rootScope.$on() after the login call but it breaks the authentication again. I'm pretty sure that there's an easier way to do this, but if anyone has any advice that'd be great! A:
