I'm not sure if stack panel is possible to be "dragged" in a way similar to notepad in Windows 7? Can it be done with a single element? Or would I have to create a new stack panel and move the existing one to it? Thanks, A: The short answer: No. There is no built-in API for managing UI elements like that. You can embed UI controls in your own UserControl and use drag and drop to move them around or you can put them in a Grid or other container. Either method is viable, and both have their own pros and cons. A: It is not possible, I have not heard of any such API 595f342e71
